

We would like to invite you to the next

QUANTESS SEMINAR

Quantess London is pleased to invite you to our next seminar on the 22nd of June, this time kindly hosted by Schrodgers. We would like to welcome you to participate in our seminar, enjoy a glass of wine, and network with women working in the quantitative space in London.

This time, we are hosting two speakers: Jing Hu, asset allocation analyst at Rathbones, speaking on the question "Where are we in the business cycle? What does that mean for style?", and Charlotte Grace, finalist in economics at the University of Cambridge, presenting her dissertation on "Issues in the female labour supply".

The event will kick off at 18:30, please RSVP on our EventBrite page to secure your ticket.

We hope you are as excited as we are, and hope to see you on the 22nd!

Best regards,
The Quantess London Team

Copyright © 2017 Quantess London, All rights reserved.

Want to change how you receive these emails?
You can update your preferences or unsubscribe from this list

MailChimp